SPOILERS IN FOOD

ear exhibitors and sponsors,

Even if only one remains... that's enough to spoil food and cause major economic losses.

Super spoilers are always on alert! The biodiversity of bacterial and fungal spoilers is constantly evolving, impacted by climate change, new agricultural practices and food processing practices.

How can we identify them? How can we predict their behavior? How do we fight them?

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to Quimper, land of legends, crêpes and kouign-amann, for this new edition of our international conference. Get ready to dive into the fascinating world of Spoily and his minions, and meet the challenges posed by these invisible but challenging enemies.

Our conference will focus on three key areas:

- Biodiversity of contaminating microorganisms
- Physiology and metabolism of contaminants
- How to fight contaminants?

The challenge of this new edition of «Microbial Spoilers In Food» is to bring together scientists, food quality and production managers, and food innovation project leaders, to exchange knowledge and experience on this crucial subject.

Welcome to Quimper, we look forward to fruitful discussions, exciting discoveries and future collaborations!
